United States To Stand Pat on Anti-War Terms

KELLOGG DRAFTS NOTE TO FRANCE REFUSING CHANGE

"Aggressive Warfare" Amendment Proposed by France To Be Rejected by America.

WANTS INCLUSION OF OTHER POWERS

State Department Optimistic Way Still Open to Treaty Barring Wars of All Kinds.

Washington, January 11.—(AP)—America will stand pat in its negotiations with France for a treaty outlawing war to have the covenant apply to "war" as such rather than to "aggressive warfare" as proposed by the French government.

The second note of Secretary Kellogg to France in the treaty negotiations was drafted for communication today and there were definite indications that this government not only turned down the French amendment for "aggressive warfare," but that it also would insist upon the inclusion of other world powers in the treaty.

A negative answer on the French amendment had been anticipated since the receipt late last week of the reply of Foreign Minister Briand to the original note of Secretary Kellogg setting forth an anti-war treaty in connection with a renewal of the arbitration covenants which expire this year.

The state department moved rapidly in formulating its reply and by nightfall the note was ready for transmission. During the day Secretary Kellogg conferred with Chairman Borah, of the senate foreign relations committee. While both declined to comment on contents of the note it was described as "bully," by Senator Borah.

This declaration of the Idaho senator was taken as renewed evidence that the reply would turn down the French amendment. He has repeatedly opposed any attempts to restrict proposals for the outlawing of war to such a term as "aggressive wars."

It is the contention of Senator Borah that there is no agency which can determine the "aggressor" and this view apparently has been shared by Secretary Kellogg. It has been pointed out since receipt of the French reply that the necessity for a definition of "aggressive" was raised the question of machinery to determine which state might be the aggressor.

While the new note of Secretary Kellogg is firm on this point the department was optimistic that the way was still open for a successful conclusion of negotiations between the two governments and that eventually a definite treaty declaring against the resort to war in cases of international disputes would be concluded.

Gives Self Up to Sheriff and Pleads To Be Handed From Curious at Jail.

Cusseta, Ga., January 11.—(AP)—Robert L. Harp, Jr., 21, killed his parents with an ax at his lonely farmhouse four miles from here today and walked to Cusseta to give himself up, explaining at "they wanted to send me to an insane asylum again."

Glibly describing his crime to Sheriff J. D. McGlaughlin in jail, the junior Harp said he slipped up behind his father and split his skull, and then chased his mother into the yard, where she met a like fate. Both died immediately.

"Dad was at the radio," he said, "and I just walked up behind him. Mother ran out back and I chased her. They wanted to send me to Milledgeville (insane asylum) and I have had enough of asylums."

Two hours had elapsed before the youth, who until two years ago was regarded as precocious, appeared to realize the enormity of his crime.

"My God!" he exclaimed to Sheriff McGlaughlin when the officer returned to his cell to question him further. "I've killed mother and dad. What shall I do? What shall I do?"

By that time crowds of curious had gathered.

Thomas Hardy Noted English Novelist, Dies

Beloved Octogenarian Was One of Greatest of the Victorians.

Dorchester, Eng., January 11.—(AP)—Thomas Hardy, aged 87, dean of English literature, died tonight at his home here after a month's illness.

The famous 87-year-old novelist had a chill December 12, and thereafter his condition was alternately hopeful and then critical, but his age imposed heavy odds against recovery. Death came at 9 p. m., after optimistic reports today.

With Hardy's death one of the greatest of the Victorians, scenes of whose novels of English life were laid in his beloved Wessex, where he lived most of his 87 years, passed from the literary world.

Chairman Reports to Ragsdale; Perry Expresses Agreement With Citizens' Body's Views.

All interests connected with the proposed erection of a new union station in Atlanta, including the city of Atlanta, the railroad, the state public service commission and the special service commission, have been working in harmony in the plan to construct a new station and satisfactory progress has been made, according to Mell R. Wilkinson, chairman of the special committee of citizens, in a report made to Mayor L. N. Ragsdale Wednesday.

"As the preliminary hearing of the case before the public service commission next Tuesday approaches I can say that all these interests involved are working in harmony and I feel sure that a satisfactory conclusion will be reached in the matter," Mr. Wilkinson said.

James A. Perry, chairman of the state public service commission, made public a copy of a letter he wrote Wednesday to Mayor L. N. Ragsdale, in which he declared himself "in thorough accord" with the view expressed recently by Mr. Wilkinson's committee that the railroad should be given ample time in which to prepare their plans and specifications for a new station.

Golfer Succeeds R. T. Jones, Sr., His Grandfather, on Atlanta Trust Board; Orme President.

Succeeding his grandfather for whom he is named, Robert T. "Bobby" Jones, Jr., Wednesday was elected a director of the Atlanta Trust company at the annual meeting of stockholders, who also named A. J. Orme president of the company.

Mr. Jones, Sr., prominent cotton mill operator, merchant and banker of Canton, Ga., who has been a director of the Atlanta Trust company for many years.

Dana Belser, head of the real estate department, and Ralph Bassett, head of the farm loan department, were elected vice presidents. Alvin B. Cates and Harry C. Mitchell were former directors named. ### BIGGER U. S. NAVY URGED BY WILBUR TO PREVENT WAR

U. S. Hasn't Fleet Able To Provide Adequate National Defense Today, Committee Is Told.

Washington, January 11.—(AP)—Approval of the administration's $725,000,000 new warship construction program was urged upon congress today by high naval officials as necessary to the establishment of an American navy strong enough to "protect commerce, preserve our ocean trade routes and provide adequate national defense."

"We have not such a fleet at the present time," was one of the conclusions of the navy general board placed before the house naval committee by Secretary Wilbur.

The secretary, in testimony, stressed a personal belief that "America needs a first-class navy," and declared he felt that if the program was carried out the "danger of war and therefore of the destruction of our overseas commerce will be greatly minimized if not entirely met."

Admiral Charles F. Hughes, chief of naval operations, said that while completion of the program would not give the United States command of the sea, the proposed ships added "to our present force" would cause any nation to pause before attacking American rights and interests.

Mr. Wilbur explained that the program, proposing the construction of 25 new 10,000-ton cruisers, five aircraft carriers, nine destroyer leaders and 32 submarines, could not be considered as competitive but was "based upon the needs of our navy as it is determined by the secretary of the navy upon the technical advice of the navy general board."

He said that Britain at the Geneva conference had rejected the original American proposal for a maximum cruiser tonnage of between 250,000 and 300,000 tons, insisting that regardless of the navy of other powers, it required a 600,000-ton cruiser tonnage to meet its needs.

GEORGIA UNITED IN BEHALF OF GEORGE

Managua, Nicaragua, January 11.—(AP)—Five rebels were killed in an engagement near Cule yesterday between followers of General Augusto Sandino and a joint patrol of United States marines and Nicaraguan national guardsmen, marine headquarters was informed today.

The patrol was commanded by Lieutenant Satterfield. It is estimated that 500 men were in the rebel party.

(Lieutenant Satterfield is not listed in the navy and marine corps register, but many marine corps non-commissioned officers hold commissions in the Nicaraguan national guard. Cule is not shown on maps, but much of the territory which marines are in conflict with Nicaraguan rebels is inadequately mapped.)

Colonel Louis Mason Gulick, commander of the marines in Nicaragua, said today that marines occupied San Albino Tuesday without opposition. Sandino once worked as a bookkeeper at a mine in San Albino. He later captured the town, worked the mine as long as he could and then destroyed it.

Unable to focus general strength on any opposition candidate to Smith, the rebels are taking shelter for the time being behind favorite sons hoping that one of these eventually will gather force as an alternative to the governor of New York.

Georgia has forestalled further efforts of Smith workers there by uniting behind Senator George. National Committeeman Cohen has brought about an indorsement of George from the state delegation in congress. Clark Howell, publisher of The Atlanta Constitution and for many years democratic national committeeman, sent a telegram to Cohen today heartily indorsing George.

Kentucky, another objective of Smith workers, has decided to vote for Senator Barkley at least during early ballots at the convention.

Indiana has Evans Woolen.

Missouri is behind Senator Reed, not only as a favorite son but with the hope of putting him over. Maryland, Arkansas, Ohio, Tennessee, North Carolina and Kansas also will have favorite sons.

However, from the west came national committeemen from Washington, Oregon, California and Minnesota supporting Smith.

The fight, obviously is between Smith and the field and Smith's friends do not intend to worry until there is some sign that the opposition is uniting.

The difficulty in the opposition is that no leader wishes to conduct a fight openly on Smith, realizing that should he do so, he could at most do only what McAdoo did in 1924, prepare the way for the nomination of a compromise candidate. Thus far no possible candidate of real size has volunteered as a sacrificial offering on the dry altar.

There was active lobbying among the cities seeking the democratic national convention. San Francisco.

Wedding Here Caps Romance Of 35 Years

Miss Maude McLaren, 59, Becomes Bride of J. S. Wolfe, 74.

Love of a woman for her childhood sweetheart, which was cherished through more than 35 years, was crowned in Atlanta Wednesday afternoon when Miss Maude McLaren, 59, became the wife of J. S. Wolfe, 74.

The marriage took place at Duval Hills Presbyterian church. The Rev. Wade H. Boggs performed the ceremony.

Mr. Wolfe, then a young railroad man, met Miss McLaren in Fairfield, Ga., in the summer of 1893. Her father, employed with the same railroad, introduced the couple. Just how far their friendship progressed is rather indefinite, but it was recognized about town that they were "keeping company."

For some reason the romance, which lasted for several months, did not immediately come to the expected climax. Mr. Wolfe married another girl and

Earl F. Williams, former collection teller in the Fourth National bank at Columbus, was held Wednesday by United States Commissioner L. S. Ledbetter for removal to the middle district of Georgia to answer charges of embezzling $4,000 from the bank.

Williams signed a statement in which he admitted his guilt and announced his intention of pleading guilty. Commissioner Ledbetter said, Williams was held under $3,000 bond pending his removal.

Commissioner Ledbetter held Albert Hamlet for the federal grand jury under $1,000 bond on charges of possessing and selling morphine. Hamlet was arrested on Peachtree street near Baker after selling an ounce of morphine to a narcotic agent for $90, the money being marked, federal officials alleged.

J. C. Gentry, who was arrested on West Peachtree a few minutes after Hamlet's arrest, will be given a hearing this morning on charges of possessing and selling morphine. Gentry's bond was fixed at $2,000.

STATUS OF JUDD IS NOT AFFECTED, JURIST EXPLAINS

Order Postpones Woman's Death Until After Habeas Motion Is Argued Friday Morning.

New York, January 10.—(United News).—A stay of execution was granted to Ruth Brown Snyder tonight, approximately 24 hours before she was to have been put to death at Sing Sing for the murder of her husband.

The order, signed by Justice Aaron J. Levy, of the supreme court, postpones the execution until sometime after Friday morning when a motion is to be argued in court here on a writ of habeas corpus.

Justice Levy told the United News that the order did not affect the status of Henry Judd Gray, Mrs. Snyder's paramour, who will be executed shortly after 11 p. m. Thursday.

Application for the stay was granted on petition of Edgar F. Hazleton and Dana Wallace, Mrs. Snyder's attorneys. They told Justice Levy that they were petitioning in behalf of Mrs. Snyder's little daughter, Lorraine, whose rights were to be protected in the suit involving the late Albert Snyder's $95,000 insurance.

It is necessary that Mrs. Snyder appear as a witness in the suit brought by an insurance company which sought to cancel the policy on the grounds that it had been obtained fraudulently.

Mrs. Snyder in her cell just around the corridor from the electric chair this afternoon signed the application which has won her—although probably brief—a new lease on life. The petition asks that she be placed in her own custody on a writ of habeas corpus so that she may present herself here as a witness in the insurance hearing, scheduled for Friday.

Friday morning Justice Levy, having granted a brief stay of the execution, will hear arguments on whether the writ of habeas corpus is to be granted. If it is there may be further delay.

If the Snyder attorneys can convince Justice Levy that Mrs. Snyder is needed as a material witness in the insurance suit he will grant the habeas corpus writ and she will then be brought here to testify in behalf of enforcing payment on her husband's policy.

The payment would be made to

19 Makes of Automobiles Promised for Exhibit Here

Addition of 1928 models of Oakland and Pontiac cars to the South-eastern Auto show at the auditorium last week in this month by F. E. Maffett, Inc., prominent southern outlet for these General Motors products, brings the total of leading makes exhibited to nineteen.

Mr. Maffett, one of the pioneers of automotive merchandising in Atlanta, announces that at least six of the latest types in both Oakland and Pontiac will be prominently displayed at the auditorium. He declared further that never in his experience had a more favorable opportunity been offered the public to benefit from an auto exposition.

The Maffett display will occupy a conspicuous position on the stage of the auditorium, will be brilliantly decorated and will be maintained by competent automobile men.

Among the "million dollar" display of new ideas in motor cars, Buick, Star, Stutz, Whippet, Hupmobile, Chevrolet, Essex, Hudson, Dodge, Willy-Knight, Stearns-Knight, Paige, Reo, Nash, Jordan, Oldsmobile, Oakland, Pontiac and others.

The accessory department is assuming elaborate proportions and promises to constitute a powerful drawing card in its own right.

Shattering local records for an advance ticket sale for any exposition of any type, the "turn-in" Tuesday night by the two dozen young women competing for cash prizes of $500 offered by the Atlanta Automobile association produced a change in leadership.

Miss Jessie Mae Jones, on the face of returns reported by Chairman Lou Credelle, moved from second to first place, supplanting Mrs. Hazel B. Runyan, who dropped to second place.

Mrs. Mary Allen, Mrs. George A. Matson, Jr., and Miss Sara Kendrick follow in the order named. Miss Bonnie Vann Gough, a late starter, earned a special award for the largest individual report, indicating the closeness of the contest among the other contestants.

3 NEGRO MOTORISTS ROBBED OF $6,500 BY FIVE BANDITS

Fredericksburg, Va., January 11.—(AP)—Gaining an hour's start by disabling the ignition system of their victim's automobile, five bandits who late today held up and robbed three negro motorists near this city, had apparently made their escape tonight, carrying with them loot said to total approximately $6,500.

The negroes, William Wyatt, William Hooks and Smith Lucas, former residents of Tappanahock, Va., but now of Philadelphia, were returning to Tappanahock for a visit when confronted by the five white bandits, four of whom were drawn guns. After searching them and taking cash and jewelry which the victims said amounted to $6,500, the robbers took the distributor from the automobile used by the negroes and fled in the direction of Fredericksburg.

DUNN'S PLATFORM NOT CHANGED

W. E. Dunn, Jr., candidate for County Commissioner, stands for wise, economical operation of all county departments on a straightforward, business-like basis, with accurate cost-keeping, to check and eliminate all "LEAKS" and adjusting expenditures to actual needs, stopping all job rides in county cars and other extravagance, upbuilding bank accounts.

Urges reduction in all salaries paid officials commensurate with earning power in commercial institutions, saving upwards of $100,000 annually for better schools, well-paid teachers, police and other workers; pay night officers time-and-a-half for overtime work as witnesses in court; a full envelope to all worthy county wage-earners; widening and making boulevard of Lee street; widening Glenn and connecting south and west sides with Boulevard, and other improvements previously mentioned, leaving a munificent pay to all office-holders bordering on the supernatural. No official in courthouse worth over $6,000 yearly. All living costs (except county salaries) show declines past several years. Pay every man his full, earned and deserved worth, but not one penny for political, vote-getting reasons or links of any kind.

Georgia stands third lowest per capita wealth of its states. County's credit no longer acceptable at banks; account prevailing extravagance; officials' salaries must reduce and economy must rule hereafter. Excess taxes are greatest obstacle to permanent sound prosperity already. Ruthless expenditures must cease, accumulating surplus leading to tax reduction.

Replying to petition for West-Tenth paving: $100,000 trimmed from officials' salaries will pave ten streets like Tenth. How many votes have you gathered ready to cast for a taxpayers' representative?

Can and will "work in harmony" with everything in the interest of the taxpayers, but NOTHING ELSE.

I am not a road grader and builder and will not be interested in securing a county contract in my own name or any other; when I have served as county commissioner seven years I feel I will then be able to point out my accomplishments for you with pride.

ELECT ME THURSDAY, JANUARY 12TH, AND I WILL SLASH ALL EXCESS SALARIES AND OTHER EXTRAVAGANCE, OR EXPOSE THE GIGANTIC FRAUDS PERPETUATING THEM.

James Burt, 13, Will Celebrate Birthday Friday

Despite all the handicaps which usually are associated with Friday the thirteenth, James Monzie Burt is preparing to celebrate.

JAMES M. BURT.

Ferguson street, N. E., will celebrate his "thirteenth" birthday next Friday.

His birthday is a lucky number for a birthday celebration, one associated with ghost stories, black cats, falling ladders, and eerie things galore. Burt has insisted on the celebration, pointing out that he also has another claim to the ill-fated numeral. James is the "thirteenth" of sixteen grandchildren.

He believes "13" is a lucky number. Charles Lindbergh says "13" always has been a good luck omen and "Lindy" has been called "Lucky Lindy." Certainly he is like "Lindy" would be great, he says.

Although only in the eighth grade of school, young Burt has his career already mapped out. He wants to be a naval officer, James confided, adding, "and I hope I can always be as good a citizen and diplomat as Colonel Charles Lindbergh."

JOE P. JOHNSTON HEADS FEDERAL BUSINESS BODY

Joe P. Johnston, postoffice inspector in charge of the Atlanta district, was reelected president of the Atlanta Federal Business association at the annual meeting, it was announced Wednesday. John M. Sloan, Jr., was reelected vice president and V. O. Kinsey secretary.

The executive committee was increased from three to six members and the following elected: J. T. Rose, John W. Snook, Major G. H. Frauke, E. K. Large, Clint W. Hager and L. H. Crawford.

A talk on coordination of government activities, the object of the association, was made by Mr. Johnston. He said that the association was organized to help the government in its work.

Dr. T. Gilbert Pearson, head of the National Association of Audubon societies of the United States, was a visitor Wednesday at the office of Peter S. Twitty, state game and fish commissioner. Dr. Pearson visited Atlanta in connection with the program of his organization. He was one of the first men to propose the creation of a state department of game and fish in Georgia, in 1907, and has aided in creation of such departments in many states of the union. The Atlanta Bird club, recently organized here, will be affiliated with the national Audubon organization, Dr. Pearson announced.

LOCAL FEDERATION OF TRADES PLANS INTENSIVE DRIVE

Plans for an intensive organization campaign throughout the Atlanta territory were announced Wednesday night at a meeting of the Atlanta Federation of Trades. The program contemplates division of the campaign into two distinct groups, one of which will deal with stimulation of interest among the various organizations now affiliated with the central trades body, and the other with enrollment of workers in all crafts into the ranks of organized labor. Several special committees will conduct the work, which will entail no expense on any affiliated organization.

Resolutions deploring the recent death of William Pollard, for years an outstanding figure in organized labor circles in the southeast, were adopted by the federation and arrangements were made for a special memorial service to be held at the next meeting of the central body.

The federation also gave its endorsement to the movement to stimulate use of Georgia food products. A resolution was adopted urging all union workers and their families to observe Georgia products day on the first Sunday of every month, using only Georgia-raised foods on that day, and thus stimulating the production of home grown commodities.

WOMAN IS SEEKING MISSING HUSBAND AND 2 CHILDREN

Search for Laurence Moore and his two children has been started by police under a warrant sworn out by his wife, Mrs. Leila Moore, charging him with abandonment. She says she allowed him to take the two young boys, Billy, 7, and Rosemary, 5, on December 28 to a Christmas party, and that he never returned.

Mrs. Moore said that her husband's motive for taking the children from her was revenge for her refusal to provide him with money. She has been earning a living for herself and five children by making candy which she sold to friends. Mrs. Moore said she had been married ten years.

Mrs. Moore swore out a writ of habeas corpus in Clayton county to force Moore to produce the two children, but he has not yet been located. She also swore out an abandonment warrant in Fulton county.

$70,000 ASKED FOR CITY AIRPORT

Appropriation of $70,000 for completion of Candler airport and maintenance of the field during 1928 will be considered by the finance committee of city council today. Petition for the appropriation was presented in council by Alderman W. R. Hartfield, chairman of the municipal airport committee.

E. K. Large, postmaster, will appear before the committee to urge completion of the field. Mr. Large, together with Alderman Hartfield, will urge that the field be put in shape for the operation of air mail routes from New York, Miami and New Orleans into Atlanta.

"If Candler field is not completed, it will place us in an awkward position, as the government has gone ahead in good faith and is establishing the airways at a cost of more than $600,000," Mr. Large said Wednesday.

"The government never participates in local fields, as that is entirely up to the cities."

Candler field should be completed at once so that the field will not be impeded. It probably will be necessary for the postoffice department to place a transfer station at the airport for the transfer and redistribution of the incoming mail and through mail, and unless the field is in first-class shape it will be difficult for the transfer station to fulfill its duties."

The proposed appropriation includes $20,000 for field lighting during the year, together with money for grading and hardening the field so that wet weather will not interfere with the planes.

WEDDING CAPS LENGTHY ROMANCE

In the course of time moved to Cedar Rapids, Iowa, where he connected with the Rock Island railroad. Miss McLaren remained in Fairfield, where she taught school for a number of years and assisted her mother in maintaining a home after the death of her father.

Introduced First Wife.

It is a peculiar coincidence that Miss McLaren's father also introduced Mr. Wolfe to his first wife. Mr. McLaren bought his home in Fairfield from a family named Whiting and it was a daughter of this family that Mr. Wolfe chose for his wife. She was also a very good friend of Miss McLaren's and through the years they kept in touch with each other by mail and through occasional meetings.

Mr. Wolfe remained with the Rock Island for 32 years, retiring four years ago. He looked forward to spending the declining years of his life in ease and comfort in his beautiful little home in Cedar Rapids. Death, however, robbed him of his wife and left him with an empty house.

Turning Back the Years.

As time went on his thoughts returned to the girl he had known and liked in his young manhood. He considered the idea of dissolving his loneliness by picking up the threads of their youth, and a few weeks later found him again in Fairfield.

The revived suit apparently met with only moderate success because when Miss McLaren came to Atlanta a short time before Christmas for a visit with her nephew and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. McLaren, Fox, 905 Rosedale road, N. E., Mr. Wolfe followed her. Wednesday's ceremony would indicate that the southern climate is Dan Cupid's ally as Mr. Wolfe was in Atlanta only a few days before the wedding took place.

RUTH SNYDER WINS STAY OF EXECUTION

NEWS RECEIVED AT SING SING

BY SAM LOVE.

United News Staff Correspondent.

Ossining, N. Y., January 11.—(United News.)—Unofficial notification of Mrs. Ruth Snyder's last minute stay of execution was received at Sing Sing prison tonight by C. Serling, secretary to Warden Lewis E. Lawes.

Obviously surprised by the announcement, Serling told the United News he had every reason to believe that Supreme Court Justice Aaron J. Levy's order would be honored.

Mrs. Snyder had not been notified of the order and no positive information of its existence came to the prison until shortly before 11 p. m.

The unexpected news passed swiftly among all prison attaches.

The first question was: "Has Judd got to go alone?"

But it was a question no one could answer. However, it is felt here that Governor Alfred E. Smith would not permit Gray to die without his confederate in crime. In any case, Sing Sing keepers believe the man will be spared also, if not any longer than his former mistress.

Although Justice Levy appeared to be certain that his order would be honored at the penitentiary, legal authorities here were divided concerning whether the execution could be delayed at so late an hour.

There was also wide speculation over the subject of how the order may be carried out at the prison. Under terms of the death warrant in the hands of Warden Lawes at Sing Sing, Ruth Snyder and Judd Gray are to be executed during the week of January 9 for the murder of Albert Snyder.

Although that gives the warden considerable leeway, it has become a precedent at the prison to execute on Thursday night of the week named in the death warrant. The warden, however, could delay the task until Friday or even Saturday night and still be within the law.

Notified at his home of the order, Lawes refused to make any comment. "I can't say a word until I've seen it in black and white," the warden declared. And then he prepared to hurry back to the prison to receive the paper in case Mrs. Snyder's lawyers arrived with it for presentation to-night.

It is believed that Edgar F. Hazleton and his associate, Dana Wallace, will not wait until tomorrow to serve the stay. There may be some argument about its legality and in that event, officials believe, they will want to know of it sufficiently in advance to prepare another move.

Many state officials will be drawn into discussion over the stay when Lawes officially is notified. These may include the governor, Commissioner Kiehl, of the department of corrections, and state attorney.

Lawes will get in touch with the others immediately to determine whether Justice Levy's order carries sufficient power. Until tonight it was believed that only an order from the presiding justice of any of the four parts of the appellate division of the supreme court could stay an execution.

It was recalled that about ten years ago Presiding Justice Jenkins, of the appellate division of the supreme court in Brooklyn, granted a stay in the case of Petrus von Dercoepert, which was to have taken place on Thursday night. Justice Jenkins at that time stayed the execution until Saturday morning, when he

PAIR APATHETIC IN DEATH CELLS.

Ossining, N. Y., January 11.—(AP)—Last-minute plans by lawyers to stay the executioner's hand filled the last full day of allotted life of Mrs. Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray. Although the lawyers were feverishly active, the prisoners themselves showed only apathy.

Mrs. Snyder remained in bed all day, refusing food almost entirely. Gray read his Bible, ate normally but without apparent pleasure, and waited quietly for the end.

Both prisoners learned from news papers that Governor Smith had denied their plea for a stay of execution, but neither showed any great emotion. Earlier Warden Lawes had said that their plea had proved futile and that the news would be no surprise to them.

Mrs. Snyder had three visitors today, but only one of them, her brother, Andrew Brown, was admitted. The two excluded were the chaplain of the Queens county jail, who converted Mrs. Snyder to Catholicism, and a Salvation Army woman prison worker. They both came at the invitation of Mrs. Snyder and the Salvation Army worker was armed with a writ of habeas corpus.

Mrs. Snyder's brother was with her for almost an hour, but the nature of their conversation was not revealed.

Gray was visited by his mother and Samuel Miller, his chief of counsel, who announced before leaving New York that he planned to make one last court move in an attempt to save his client. The move, he let it be understood, would be an application for a writ of habeas corpus.

Mrs. Snyder's three lawyers, Edgar F. Hazleton, Dana Wallace and Joseph L. Ladd, conferred in Jamaica last afternoon and then Ladd left for Ossining with an application for a writ of habeas corpus for Mrs. Snyder to sign.

Lawes was given a letter to Warden Lawes signed by the other two attorneys, asking that he be permitted to see Mrs. Snyder and that a notary public be furnished him.

In a formal statement issued after the conference it was made plain that Hazleton did not approve of the move for a writ, even though he consented to the others making it.

The statement read: "Mr. Ladd is on his way to Sing Sing prison to have Mrs. Snyder sign a petition for a writ of habeas corpus to be presented to the federal court. This procedure is concurred in by all her attorneys, although Judge Hazleton some time ago, after careful consideration of the matter with eminent constitutional authorities, decided that such a step would be inadvisable. Although consenting to this application, Judge Hazleton does not join in it."

The writs for both prisoners were to be asked on the ground that their

FARMER IS HELD IN DACULA MURDER

Lawrenceville, Ga., January 11.—(Special.)—Coroner Peter Smith, of Gwinnett county, today returned a verdict in the double ax murder of Jim Reddingfield and his three-year-old son, John, who were discovered brutally killed in their home near Dacula two weeks and three days ago.

The coroner reported that his probe had found the Reddingfields killed by parties unknown, but recommended that Will Williams, 40, farmer, of near Dacula, be held for grand jury investigation in March.

Williams was arrested in Atlanta three days following the discovery of the crime and has been in the Gwinnett county jail here since. Sheriff W. T. McGee refusing to divulge his name.

As far as officials will make known Williams has not been definitely connected with the crime, but Coroner Smith and Sheriff McGee both refused to make known the full contents of the coroner's report.

At the same time Williams was arrested, two other men were taken into custody in Dooly county. Both of these men were later released.

DID YOU WAKE UP COUGHING?

Here at Last Is the Relief You Have So Long Been Seeking

If you have catarrh you are in danger of losing your hearing. The first symptoms of catarrhal deafness are roaring or buzzing sensations and a stopped-up feeling in the ears. A neglected cold, or an uncurbed cough, leads to catarrh, and as everybody knows, catarrh affects the eyes, ears, nose, throat, lungs and frequently undermines the general health.

The secret of the successful medication of these hidden parts was discovered by Dr. Blosser in his medical practice. This remedy is applied by smoking a certain combination of medicinal herbs (containing no tobacco) in a pipe or cigarette. Dr. Blosser's Remedy produces a dense smoke vapor which is inhaled or forced into the Eustachian tubes leading to the middle ear. It penetrates to parts impossible to reach with balm, salve, sprays, douches, pills, tablets, liquids and so-called "constitutional treatments." This Remedy is absolutely harmless.

You can get from any drug store a convenient pocket-size package of Dr. Blosser's Cigarettes and prove for yourself their pleasant, beneficial effects.

HARDMAN TO PASS ON TWO APPEALS FOR COMMUTATION

Recommendations that executive clemency be granted Wade Johnson, condemned to execution in Jones county, and E. C. Stigall, former Atlanta policeman serving a 15-year sentence on a murder charge, will be heard by Governor Clifford Walker Thursday. The recommendations were returned by the state prison commission.

Johnson was condemned following conviction on the charge of participating in a criminal assault on an aged Jones county woman, Jarrett Binford, convicted for the same crime and sentenced to be executed, is serving a life sentence, the death penalty having been commuted to life imprisonment by Governor Clifford Walker. The prison commission stated that the sentence of Johnson should be commuted inasmuch as clemency was extended to Binford.

Stigall was convicted of killing W. N. Hames, a private detective, in 1925. He was sentenced to serve a 15-year sentence. The prison commission recommended that this sentence be commuted to present service.

SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS WILL OF H. H. TUCKER

The supreme court Wednesday handed down a decision upholding the will of the late Henry H. Tucker, of Atlanta, in which Mr. Tucker left his estate, consisting of valuable city property, to a cousin who lives in Massachusetts.

The will was attacked by Mrs. Henrietta T. Cooper, sister of Mr. Tucker, who contended that he did not have testamentary capacity at the time his will was executed. Miss Mathra A. S. Shannon was the beneficiary under the will which was upheld.

Mr. Tucker was well known in Atlanta, where he was often seen on the streets carrying a heavy iron cane. He was somewhat eccentric, according to friends, but evidence was presented to the court to show that he possessed keen business judgment.

Italian, Suspected As Ship Deserter, Held by Government

Martino Stanich acted like a foreigner in the suspicious eyes of a government official on the train coming into Atlanta Wednesday, and a few hours later he was being explained to immigration officials how he came to leave his ship at New York after being paid off as a seaman, according to M. A. Cockendall, immigration inspector in charge of the Atlanta district.

A government official who observed Stanich on the train noted the number of the taxicab he took on reaching the station, and reported the matter to immigration officers. Stanich was traced through the taxicab, and given a hearing before Inspector in Charge Cockendall Wednesday afternoon. The suspected alien was released under $500 bond pending a full investigation of his case.

Stanich admitted that he was of Italian nationality, that he left his ship in New York after receiving his pay, and that he did not go through the usual channels in entering the country. Mr. Cockendall said, after the hearing.

CASE AGAINST FORMER BANKER IS DISMISSED

Federal Judge Samuel H. Sibley Wednesday signed a decree dismissing the case as to William Bell Hatford Pennington in the suit brought by E. F. Anderson, as receiver for the First National bank of Covington, against James C. Anderson and other defendant directors. In an opinion handed down with the decree Judge Sibley held that no longer period than four years could apply as a limit for the case against Mr. Pennington, and that no cause of action against Pennington was set forth in the petition. Mr. Pennington showed the court that he severed his connection with the bank as a director in 1921, six years before the filing of the suit.

NISSENBAUM FREED IN BAD CHECK TRIAL

On a demurrer filed in behalf of Abe Nissenbaum and Max LeBawe, 14 indictments charging possession of fictitious checks were dismissed Wednesday by Judge E. D. Thomas, of Fulton superior court, on the ground the true bills were technically at fault.

Attorneys for the two defendants attacked the indictments on the contention they failed to show that a Georgia bank had been victimized and that the checks were made payable to the "Corn Exchange Bank of Savannah," said to be a non-existent institution.

Nissenbaum and LeBawe were arrested last December when a number of checks were found in a suit of clothes sent to a cleaner's.

Nissenbaum is one of a dozen men under indictment in connection with the slaying of Bert Donaldson.

You Can Win $2,000.00

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION'S "COW" FIGURE GAME

$2,000.00 First Prize — $1,000.00 Second Prize — $500.00 Third Prize

Twenty-five Cash Prizes in All—Amounting to $4,515.00

$500.00 Extra First Prize for Promptness

This is your opportunity to use your spare time to advantage. These big cash prizes are going to be given away to the lucky winners, and no one has a better chance than you if you will only make the proper effort. The object of the game is to see how much you can make the "COW" weigh by filling inside of the border representing the cow with figures "9's." Now isn't that simple?

This space must not be detached from the cow. I have written the figure "9" inside of the outer border representing the cow above times, giving a grand sum total of pounds.

How many times can you write by hand, using a lead pencil, the figure "9" inside the border forming the cow outline? The sum total of the number of the "9's" that you put in the cow picture will represent your answer or what you give as the weight of the cow. For example twenty "9's" will be 180 pounds; one hundred "9's" would be 900 pounds, etc. Can you write in one hundred "9's," two hundred, or how many? The person having the greatest number of "9's," that is, the largest sum total, will win first prize, second largest second prize, etc.

NOTE: While there are three cow pictures given in this announcement, as a contestant may have plenty of material to work on, only one cow picture is to be submitted with a solution.

How Much Can You Make the "Cow" Weigh?

THAT'S THE PROBLEM!

TRY YOUR HAND AT IT BY WRITING THE FIGURE "9" AS MANY TIMES AS YOU CAN INSIDE THE BORDERLINE OF THE "COW."

When you have them all written in, add them. That will give you your answer to "How Much Can You Make the Cow Weigh." Every "9" stands for 9 pounds, and the total of "9's" you have written in the cow space is your weight record.

Begin now on the game by clipping out the "cow" picture and start with lead pencil to filling in with the figure "9." You will find it absorbing fun, and every "9" that you write in the "cow" figure takes you further on your way to the big cash prizes that are to be given.

Be sure that the "9's" do not touch each other, nor touch the border of the cow. You may have additional copies of the "cow" picture by writing to the Cow Contest Dept., inclosing a stamped return envelope. The extra copies, however, will be on the same grade of paper as this is printed on.

You have a chance to earn $35.00, $250.00, $1,000.00 or $2,000.00, as explained and shown in the Prize List, and $500.00 extra for promptness.

How to Win $2,000.00

It is not necessary to send a subscription, but by qualifying your entry into "How much can you make the cow weigh" game with one or two subscriptions, you can increase the amount of the prize money that you will receive if you are a winner. For instance, the first prize is $35.00, but if winners of first prize has qualified with one six months' subscription, the prize will be $250.00 instead of $35.00. If qualified with one year's subscription the prize will be $1,000.00 instead of $35.00; or if qualified with two annual subscriptions the prize would be $2,000.00 instead of $35.00, and so on with proportional increases throughout the entire prize list. In all there are 25 prizes, as shown in this announcement.

$35.00 will be awarded to the winner of first prize (the person having the largest sum total in the cow picture) if no subscription is sent to the daily and Sunday Constitution.

Closing Date

THE "HOW MUCH CAN YOU MAKE THE COW WEIGH" GAME CLOSSES WEDNESDAY, FEB. 8TH, 1928.

NO SOLUTION CAN BE CHANGED AFTER IT HAS ONCE BEEN REGISTERED.

If you find that you can make the cow weigh more than the first solution which you sent, the only thing you can do is to send in another solution, which must be qualified independent of the first solution submitted. In other words, the qualification of one solution already submitted cannot be transferred to a later solution.

IMPORTANT FACTS TO REMEMBER!

While the amount you pay with the solution does not have any effect on your winning an award, it does affect the amount you will receive should you win one of the awards, as the value of these awards is determined by what the winners pay. This is explained in the prize list, which you should study carefully before sending in your solution.

Address your solution, remittances, etc., to the Contest Manager, Daily Circulation Dept., The Atlanta Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Observe These General Rules of the Contest:

- All bona fide residents of Georgia and adjoining states may take part in this contest, except employees of The Atlanta Constitution and members of their families.
- Contestants may submit as many different solutions as they desire, provided payment of one of the three amounts designated in the prize list shall accompany each solution, but no contestant will be permitted to win more than one award. Once registered, a solution cannot be changed.
- The first prize will be awarded to the person having the greatest sum total, which is to be determined by the sum of the figures "9" written in the space designated inside of the border forming the picture representing the cow; to the second greatest total second prize, third greatest total third prize, etc.
- Any lead pencil may be used. All writing or drawing pens of artists or engineers or their like are barred, as ink cannot be used on this grade of paper without blurring. The figures "9" need not be perfect in shape, but must be complete. Write as small as you like with any ordinary lead pencil of standard make—just so each "9" is fully shaped. Figures cannot touch each other, nor are they permitted to touch any part of the borderline forming the shape of the cow.
- Copperplate type, shorthand, reproductions or reductions are barred, also duplicates of the original. Every "9" must actually be made by hand with any ordinary lead pencil of standard make, and must be discernible to the naked eye, meaning clear and distinct to a person of average good eyesight or equivalent. The natural eye by those who do not wear glasses, and ordinary reading glasses by those who wear glasses only guide allowed in filling in the figure "9." A "9" with either straight or curved tail is permissible.
- Every contestant must give the correct total of the weight of the cow in the answer submitted by him. Incorrect statement disqualifies the solution. This weight of course is the sum total of the "9's" he has written in the figure representing the cow. This is important! Your name and complete address must be plainly written on margin of sheet on which your answer is given, or blank printed for that purpose, or a blank of your own selection attached hereto.

7. In case of ties, while there is hardly a chance in 10,000 of a tie, as many awards will be reserved as there are people tied. Before any awards are awarded for less correct solutions, another puzzle will be submitted to those tied on the same order of this one, except a smaller "cow" picture, after which should still result each contestant will receive the full amount of the prize tied for.

8. Only one prize will be awarded to a person, household, or group of persons. Any person or household or group of persons submitting duplicates are barred.

9. The decision of The Atlanta Constitution must be accepted as final and conclusive in all matters, and participants by sending in their answers agree to accept the decision of the contest manager of The Atlanta Constitution as conclusive and final.

10. The Atlanta Constitution reserves the right to reject at any time any contestant whom it believes has violated the rules. The solution of the winner of first prize will be reproduced in The Constitution, together with the published result which will be published as soon as possible after the closing date of the contest.

11. All answers will receive the same consideration, regardless as to whether or not a subscription for the daily and Sunday Constitution be sent in.

12. The contest is open to new and old subscribers alike. The regular subscription rate of $5.00 for six months' subscription or $9.50 for 12 months' subscription to the daily and Sunday Constitution will prevail. Daily only subscriptions or Tri-Weekly subscriptions not acceptable in this contest. Full amount of subscription must be remitted in every instance. When sent through an agent, postmaster, or otherwise no commission can be deducted. In column 2 of prize list, six months' subscription there referred to can be either new or renewal; column

3, 12 months' subscription $9.50, can be either new or renewal. Column 4, requiring two annual subscriptions, one can be a renewal, but one must be new. A new subscription means one who is not now taking the daily and Sunday Constitution, directly or indirectly through any source, and has not within the past 60 days.

13. Subscriptions secured by the means of this contest in Atlanta and suburbs will be delivered by carrier service. In towns outside of Atlanta, where The Constitution has carrier delivery service, the paper may be delivered by carrier, upon request of the subscriber or contestant; otherwise the paper will be sent by mail.

14. A person who is now taking the daily and Sunday Constitution, and paying the carrier or agent by the week or month, or otherwise, may send or bring directly to The Constitution a six or twelve months' payment to qualify a solution. Whatever is due such carrier, dealer or agent at that time must be paid to him as the remittance sent us will date from the date it is received. The carrier or agent will be notified by The Constitution of such advance payments. If all arrearages are not paid the solution may not be considered valid. Renewals on mail subscriptions will be extended for the length of time paid for from present paid date of expiration. All qualifying subscriptions in this contest must be paid in advance.

15. Contest closes Wednesday, February 8th, 1928. All solutions delivered in person must be at The Constitution office by 9:00 p. m. of that date, but may be mailed any time before midnight. Solutions mailed at any post office in Georgia and adjoining states bearing postmark of no later date than midnight February 8th, 1928, will be accepted if rules governing same are complied with. The contest extends from Wednesday, January 4th, 1928, to and including Wednesday, February 8th, 1928. Five days will be given thereafter for those who have not fully qualified for the larger prizes to do so, after which no further qualification remittances will be accepted.

The above rules are simple, easy to understand, and are all the information that can be given on the contest except that which appears in the announcement of which this is a part.

GEORGE FOR PRESIDENT.

It should be a source of gratification to the whole state that the Georgia delegation in congress has united in the recommendation to the state that it present the name of Georgia's junior senator, Walter F. George, for the democratic presidential nomination.

For more than six months The Constitution has been urging Georgia to take this step.

In editorial after editorial we have repeatedly emphasized the fact that Senator George is the peer not only of any of the democratic leaders in congress, but in the nation. He possesses every qualification to make him an ideal candidate and this being true we have earnestly contended that it is inexcusable cowardice for Georgia to sit silently by in truculent admission that the fact that such a leader is a southern man should disbar him from consideration for the highest nomination in the gift of a party whose main source of strength is in the south, upon the electoral vote of which the party is absolutely dependent for success.

If the state will take the advice unanimously given by its full representation in congress it will have to its credit not only the fact that it presents a candidate who measures in every way to the full responsibilities of the position, but in addition to this, its position in the national convention will be tremendously strengthened by the courage that prompts it to take this step.

The Constitution has time and again urged that at least some southern state present a candidate around whom the whole south might rally.

No other state seems ready to break away from the tradition that a southern democratic leader must be penalized by being kept in the background for the sole and only reason that we have not the courage to assert our right to at least equal consideration.

Now that Georgia has been asked by its congressional delegation to back Senator George it is to be hoped that she may secure the co-operation of sister states, and that this section will be courageous enough to ask that it be shown the way from the democratic kitchen to the democratic parlor.

Whatever may have been the factional difference in this state, now is an admirable opportunity for all to get together in behalf of Senator George and party peace and harmony.

THE COTTON GUN-MEN.

Congressman Brand, of this state, has gone gunning for the gun-men who held up and looted the cotton producers of the south with unauthorized, but seemingly official, forecasts of crop yield and carry-over. That gross misfeasance in the department of agriculture cost the south several hundred millions of dollars last September.

Our congressman asserts, in the preamble of a resolution to investigate that transaction, that "it is reported that the New Orleans, New York and Chicago cotton exchanges were concerned with the issuance or publication" of the devastating reports from the department. He wants the house committee on agriculture to make a thorough investigation of the whole matter.

If it shall be found true that there was collusion, conspiracy or copartnership between exchange speculators and officials of the government department, there will be profound indignation, not alone in the cotton belt, but in all areas where the living conditions and prosperity of the people are dependent upon the products of agriculture and all of its auxiliaries.

It would be intolerable to have such vast and vital industries open to the raids of produce gamblers tipped off by government cooperators. Therefore it is wise and necessary to have this particular case of disastrous cause and effects probed to the bottom, so that precautions may be taken by proper legislation against any like event in the future.

The public at large, as well as those parts immediately concerned, will approve the investigation demanded by Congressman Brand and the house of representatives should promptly authorize it.

OSTRACISING THE SOUTH.

The uniformity with which federal authorities in Washington ignore, or deliberately ostracise, the south in administrative affairs, whenever possible to do so legally, has been frequently demonstrated. The Constitution time and again has commented upon glaring instances of the sort, and congressmen of the south, notably Senator Harris, of this state, have vigorously, but futilely, protested against such flagrant cases of disfavor and discrimination.

Only this Monday past the bureau of education, department of the interior, announced that "eleven educational specialists from colleges and universities throughout the country have been appointed to take part in the land grant college survey," undertaken by the bureau with an appropriation of $117,000 by congress.

The list of eleven educational specialists does not contain the name of one educator from any of the southern states, yet they are nearly a third of the states of the union and every one of them contains one or more of the land grant colleges supervised by the federal government.

Two of the eleven specialists are from Cornell university, two from Ohio State university and two from the Iowa state college. The pending survey is claimed to be the largest of its character ever made, covering 69 land grant colleges, each state and territory maintaining such colleges for white students and 17 operating additional colleges for negro students.

Yet it seems that nowhere in all the southern states could be found an educator fit to serve on the survey commission! On the contrary, our southern colleges are to be surveyed and valued by "specialists" from Oregon, Indiana and New Jersey!

We will not argue the case here; we refer it to the senators and representatives from the south in congress.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

On the Boulevards.

About this time Paris boulevards are crowded with little shacks. Every empty space where the Christmas crowds pass the traditional "barraques" come into existence over night. There are literally thousands of them in Paris. They all come at once and two or three weeks later they will all go away in a night. It's a mystery where they come from and where they go, but suddenly they are there all prettily lighted with every imaginable useless thing to sell. They deal only in foolish little gifts but they do an extraordinarily large business. This year they have a variety of dolls dressed in the costumes of all the ages and all countries. There are even dolls gargoyles, and doll demons. The London bolshies and the fascist black shirt. But the favorites remain the Victorian doll with pantalettes, the pierrot and the lady of the time of Louis XV. They also have dolls who recall the famous crimes; they have dolls of women cut in pieces. As a rule they have the same barbe, sugar, ginger cake, popcorn, but this year, not only the things made in Paris have the vogue but the Orient with its nougat and strange pastries as well as the beaten copper utensils, the Oriental cushions, bags and rugs attract the usual shoppers.

Mayerling Mystery.

The mystery element in the drama of the Crown Prince Rudolf, only son of the last emperor of Austria, has flared up with new intensity in spite of the fact that the imperial setting in central Europe has totally disappeared. A Czechoslovakian journalist, M. Penizek, gives an entirely new version of the "suicide" of Rudolf and his "mistress," Maria Veezera. He has his information from Dr. Eduard Albert, the medico who prepared the death certificate of the two lovers. Doctors and investigators by order of the emperor, arranged a coroner's inquest in the appearance of a suicide pact, said Dr. Albert. In reality the crown prince had been murdered by the guardian of Maria Veezera. That Francis Joseph knew this, but wanted to avoid a scandal and above all a blot on the imperial prestige, may be deduced from the fact that Maria's guardian was banished from Austria. Several eminent medical men at the time refused to sign the protocol of suicide. Dr. Albert, charged with performing an autopsy, was also ordered to find certain traces of a mental disease in the brain of Rudolf, which made it possible that the clerical authorities could consider the "suicide," as not responsible for his act.

Poland's Crown.

Discovery of the ancient Polish crown in the historical museum at Breslau, a few days ago, of "curiosities" occasionally lent out for civic masked balls, fancy dress processions, and festive, of the kind, is of some historic interest. Queen Maria Joseph of Poland and electress of Saxony, in terror at the approach of Frederick the Great, concealed the emerald royal robes, the crown and other jewels in one of the great brass-bound chests of the castle armory, doubtless in the belief that Frederick was worse than even a bad reputation could have earned. The crown, which was made for Augustus the Strong, and weighed four German pounds, is made of silver, heavily gilded, and covered with colored semi-precious stones in a design of six little circles. The crown is said to be of a noted German goldsmith. It has been cleaned and polished and is now one of the most noteworthy sights Dresden museum has to offer.

Timely Views of Noted Americans

BY CLARENCE S. DARROW.

(Clarence S. Darrow was born at Kinsman, Ohio, in 1857. He formerly was a railway attorney, of record in the famous trial of the "Jugoslavians" in the large number of indictments and labor contracts cases during the past few years. He was elected in 1902 to the Illinois legislature and has been active in political campaigns as an independent democrat. He was married to Richard Leach, youthful statesman, at Chicago, and in 1925, when he was defense attorney in the case of the "Jugoslavians" in Houston, Texas. Darrow is the author of several books, and has written many pamphlets and economic questions.)

Crime will largely disappear when society has become sufficiently enlightened to equip every child so that he can earn a living by practicing a trade or profession. But scaring people into virtue doesn't work.

Criminals are to be found almost wholly among those brought up in the streets, and their careers of crime generally begin in youth.

They drift into crime as naturally as others drift into colleges or professions. Crime becomes a profession because they have no other profession.

There are few doctors, lawyers, bankers, carpenters, bricklayers, or even plumbers in jail, because it would not only be risky, but foolish, and unprofitable for them to run the chance of going to jail. Men go into crime that surround their lives. Crime comes their profession, for lack of any other.

Since 75 per cent of children have neither the mental equipment nor the interest necessary for a high school education, most of the large sums now spent on state education in high schools and colleges could profitably be diverted to the instruction of this lower stratum in trades and manual arts.

As to Hickman, slayer of Marian Parker, Los Angeles, the youth has a clearly marked case of dementia praecox, and he should be put in an asylum for life. Inasmuch as such persons are always dangerous and seldom cured, instead of being killed by the state.

Hickman's answers to questions, as published in the newspapers, and the way he blew up are evidence that he is very far gone in dementia praecox.

YOUR BOY AND YOUR GIRL

BY ARTHUR DEAN, SC. D.

Do you love some one? If you think you do never mind the rest. If you think all natural desires should be expressed regardless; If you have a friend who can put up $2 for a ticket; If daddy is a good sport; If your motto is "I'll try anything once;" Then join our marriage excursion trip. Sailings every day. Grand affair. No responsibility. Plenty of life savers on board stuffed with easy divorce papers. Remember you're only young once. Why not?

By this time the three girls who wrote us that they were going to get on somebody's excursion boat and take a little trip with three adorable fellows whom they met at a football game, have already done so. Undoubtedly the six went Dutch treat and between them raked up enough cash to pay for the marriage licenses.

The box of letters of advice which I am sending them from you readers I sent by express and "collected." And they will find the contents well worth the price. Anyway, the old folks under the new scheme of things pay the express charges. I'll know better next year than start something around Christmas time which loads up the letter boxes and mail cars.

The real question behind all this talk of companionate marriage (whatever that term really means nobody seems exactly to agree) is the effect of half-baked discussion upon our young people. When Judge Lindsey calls those Kansas children who recently advertised the parents of the bride, "Lindberghs who had the courage to cross the ocean of superstition" it wouldn't be a bad idea to call attention to the fact that those "Lindbergh" excursionists had no gasoline in their tank and no instrument board.

If marriage is to be treated as nothing more than an excursion, then Heaven help the excursionists! If I do have to struggle to put their children through school, believing that it was the right thing to do,

French Politeness

BY FRED C. KELLY

Because of the widespread popular belief in French politeness, I was prepared to be suspicious of this. Most ideas long entertained by the multitude seem likely to be erroneous. But the French are polite. And they show strong evidence of being sincere. They are polite and obliging because of what appears to be their inborn friendliness. They are too pleasure-loving and tolerant to be otherwise. One still hears vulgar stories about discourtesy toward Americans; but I am convinced that almost any American who is insulted by the French is one whose behavior is such that he ought to be insulted. Right offhand, I can think of nearly a dozen Americans who have never been insulted, but who have been insulted by their own good. My friends assure me that I myself am somehow an irritating fellow, and yet I have received only courteous treatment from Frenchmen in various walks of life. From waiters to dog dealers, I even met a decent, obliging man selling tickets in a theater box office. Maybe he was just an assistant and the regular man was away.

We went to an outlying cafe which one reaches by crossing a small lake in a boat. After ordering, I discovered that we were about the only customers in the place. Because it was late in the season, everybody was seeking places more in the center of things. Since half the fun of dining in Paris, is watching other diners, we regretted having come to such a deserted spot and were inclined to cancel the dinner order, even if we had to pay for the food. Time was precious to waste.

The big boss of the place not only readily consented to cancel our order but simultaneously refused to let us pay for it. "If you're only here in Paris for a little while," he said, "you naturally want to go where there's life. But do come here again when the weather is warm and the crowds are out. Then fearing that we might meet difficulty in obtaining a taxi cab back into the city, he sent a boy and bicycle across the little lake in the spacious restaurant with us, and had him set forth into the highways and byways until he found a taxi.

Taxis in Paris are so cheap, by the way, that they are much used and consequently a great expense to the tourist. Because one can ride perhaps 15 minutes for only about eight cents, and a two-cent tip, it seems foolish to walk or even to take a subway train.

Paris has two subway systems, one called the Metro and the other the Nord-Sud, which is as near as the French can come to spelling north-south.

EVERYDAY QUESTIONS

BY DR. S. PARKES CADMAN.

Sayville, I. I. By what right are your missionaries in China and Japan or, for that matter, those of any other white nations with their imperialistic designs? Why not leave China to the Chinese? They do not intrude in other nations.

China is now expediting the foreigner's departure from her shores. She is exacting heavy penalties for their mistaken policies, past and present. The size of her territory, the missionaries who have done much to create in her people their demand for national integrity and self-government.

China's trade has been benefited by the white nations. They established themselves on the coast because the natives regarded the country as sacred and the foreigner as defilement. So far as I can learn, their diplomatic and economic measures have wrought great harm and equally great good.

But are you quite sure that China will be any wiser and happier if every foreigner is withdrawn? Her domestic strife and official corruption, according to the size of her territory and its vast population, do not promise peace and prosperity, either for the nation itself or for its Orient.

It surpasses the wit of man to maintain a tranquil intercourse between China and the rest of the world unless she regains a strong central government. Her well wishers hope this can be done and approve her natural resentment of imperialistic aggression. But the hope presupposes many essentials which at present are lacking.

The non-intrusion of the Chinese elsewhere which you assert is fictitious. They are the capitalists and traders of the east, and they have large colonies in South America. In Cuba they control the labor situation, and may yet be sufficiently strong to control it elsewhere. The missionaries and their equipment for economic interpretation and, when armed, for military prowess.

I think you will agree that the problem cannot be solved by the exclusion of the missionaries whose sacrificial efforts have helped to enlighten China's national consciousness. It now needs their guidance as never before.

Brooklyn, N. Y. As a father I ask you if there is any advantage in a year of business for a young man when he is the close of his high school and the beginning of his college life?

The March of Civilization

The Story of Two Men: a Sage And a Bottomless Pit

By Robert Quillen

Two righteous men who had little to do sat in the shade of a tree and whittled and argued. They argued, as righteous men will, concerning the nature of God.

"My belief is," said one of them, "that man does well to fear God. His wrath is easily provoked, and he is quick to avenge himself on those who scorn him and refuse to do his will. Take these earthquakes and cyclones and floods, for example. I believe they are punishments inflicted on a wicked world. Men live bravely in sin and think they can escape His wrath, but His patience does not endure forever, and when He is weary of the world's wickedness He sends disasters to crush those who have dared to affront Him."

"I think you are wrong," said the other man. "God isn't like that, at all. These 'disasters' you are talking about are merely the normal functioning of nature. A flood is a disaster to those who happen to be in the way, whether they are good or bad. God hasn't anything to do with it. He is a God of love, and His mercy endures forever. He is gentle and quick to forgive. His heart is filled with pity for His poor creatures. He is a Father, patient, understanding and slow to anger."

Thus the men argued; and because they could not agree they decided to visit a sage who lived near and ask him to compose their difference.

"It is a simple matter," said the sage. "Near the top of yonder mountain is a cave and in the cave a pit that is called bottomless. Go there and look into the pit and you will see your God."

The two men visited the cave and gazed into the pit long and earnestly and then returned to the sage to tell him what they had seen.

"I was right," said one of the men. "I saw God, and He is as I pictured Him—stern of countenance, demanding complete obedience, quick to punish those who sin."

"Nay, I was right," said the other man. "I saw Him, and His face is gentle and kind. Love shines in His eyes. He would not harm the poorest of His creatures. His heart is filled with compassion, and He will forgive all who transgress."

"You did not see God in the pit," said he. "There is water at the bottom of it, and the water serves as a mirror. You saw your own reflections. Each of you has created his God in his own image."

Odds &amp; Ends of City Life

by Bill Shippen

Elevators in some of Atlanta's office buildings drop with a speed which seems terrific to passengers not initiated. It recalls the fright I saw on the face of a man who had stepped unawares into his first lift.

The fellow was straight from the Cowpe Mountain, the precipitous slopes of which are a part of Murray county's perpendicular terrain; but he had always won his altitude by virtue of self-leader and a stout wind and limb.

Here to attend federal court, he ambled innocently into the trap; when it shut upon his head and door from below, he made no outcry. I wonder how many sophisticated could command such stoicism if confronted, say, by a hot-cat of the man's native hills.

All taxi drivers carry lead pencils in their leggings. What do they use their cars for, if not to tick the pencils? The headlong boys couldn't hear a fog-horn in traffic, timid motorists say.

Frederick T. Newell, 52, Industrial Bureau Head, Dies After Sudden Attack

Atlanta's Business Life
Stricken in Office; Funeral Here Saturday.

Frederick T. Newell, 52, secretary of the industrial bureau of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce and one of the outstanding figures in Atlanta's business affairs, died suddenly about 10 o'clock Wednesday morning in his office, following a heart attack.

He was going about his daily tasks in the chamber building when the attack came. He was found by an employee, who immediately called an ambulance and rushed Mr. Newell to St. Joseph's hospital, but he died before reaching it.

Mr. Newell had apparently been in good health and went to his office Wednesday morning in the best of spirits. His cheerful smile greeted his office assistants and his collapse came as a surprise and shock to them as well as to his legion of friends throughout the city.

He died working for the city he loved so well and for which he has devoted his every energy for the past four years while in charge of the bureau.

Officials of the chamber of commerce closed the offices immediately after his death out of respect for his life and service and as a mark of tribute to him as a civic leader. The funeral will remain closed until after his funeral Saturday in Savannah.

As secretary of the industrial bureau he devoted untiring efforts to the task of interesting industrial executives throughout the nation in Atlanta and its advantages along industrial lines and in persuading them to locate in Atlanta and Georgia.

His duty dealt with following up inquiries in response to the national advertising campaign conducted by the Forward Atlanta commission. Success has come to the city during the past few years due largely to his efforts and in the past year 158 new business concerns were added to the industrial and commercial life of Atlanta, an average of 13.2 each month.

Known throughout the nation as one of the best sources of accurate and detailed information concerning industrial development, Mr. Newell was called upon by business concerns and branches of the United States government for assistance in assembling authoritative information of this character.

It was largely through his efforts that Atlanta was chosen as the key city, where the distribution census was taken by the government and the information gathered here is proving valuable not only in attracting new enterprises to the community but in aiding local business houses to improve and expand their operations.

He cooperated with government agents in conducting the distribution census in Atlanta by the federal government. Benefits of this survey will be far reaching, chamber officials declare.

Born in Milledgeville, Ga., on February 22, 1876, he came to Atlanta when a young man and later went to New York where, for several years, he was head of the department of grades and salaries of New York city.

During the regime of the late Mayor John Puroy Mitchell he was called to Washington as head of the personnel service of the United States shipping bureau, where he was associated directly with Rear Admiral Nelson. Upon the conclusion of the war he retired from federal service and decided to locate again in the south. He returned to Atlanta to take the executive post with the chamber of commerce, following his marriage to Mrs. Alice Chandler Ricker, of Beaufort, South Carolina.

When the United States entered the world war Mr. Newell was made secretary to the mayor's committee of defense. He was associated in this work with Rodman Wainmaker, Cornelius Vanderbilt and others, whose contribution to civic war work at that time was notable.

When the work of this committee was concluded, Mr. Newell was called to Washington as head of the personnel service of the United States shipping bureau, where he was associated directly with Rear Admiral Nelson. Upon the conclusion of the war he retired from federal service and decided to locate again in the south. He returned to Atlanta to take the executive post with the chamber of commerce, following his marriage to Mrs. Alice Chandler Ricker, of Beaufort, South Carolina.

Recently, because of compilation of end-of-the-year statistics and reports and the gathering of data with reference to the proposed establishment of a new time in Atlanta, Mr. Newell's duties caused him to work overtime and the strain of his increased activities is thought partly responsible for the attack.

He was a son of the late Captain T. F. Newell and Ann Lane Colquitt, daughter of Governor Alfred Colquitt, who also was a former member of the United States senate, and his family connections included some of the most prominent figures in the state.

As a youth he spent a large part of each summer in Atlanta at the home of his grandfather, Governor Colquitt, whose residence was located not far from what is now Five Points. His father was one of the outstanding figures of the day, serving as mayor of Milledgeville during the reconstruction period and rendering stalwart service to his community and his state.

In addition to his widow, he is survived by three sisters, Mrs. William Kemp of Tucson, Ariz.; Mrs. W. C. Schultz, of Baltimore; and Miss Mary Newell, of Harvey, Ill.; three brothers, Alfred C. Newell, prominent Atlanta insurance man and former president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce; Colonel Isaac Newell, of the United States army, now stationed in China; and Thomas F. Newell, of New York.

Ellen and Ann Lane Newell, daughters of Alfred C. Newell, of Atlanta, and Miss Ann Schultz, daughter of Mrs. W. C. Schultz, of Baltimore, Md., were brides at the wedding at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon from the Ponce de Leon Avenue Baptist church and interment will be in the family lot in the Riverside cemetery, Saturday morning. Other arrangements will be announced later. Barclay & Brandon company in charge.

As a mark of tribute to his life and service, the regular weekly luncheon of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, scheduled for 12:30 o'clock today at the Astor hotel, has been postponed, it was announced Wednesday.

LADDERGRAM Climb Down!

Laddergrammers, sh-h-h! Maybe you'll find the way to climb right down into the cellar where Wine is to be had, but don't tell even your best friend about it. The only clue we offer is to start at Home, keep going till the stuff is Made, and then tumble to the fact that what's at the bottom of the ladder is honest-goodness, Wine! Change a single letter only in each new word-step and don't transcribe the remaining letters. "Mome" will eliminate one rung, but the word is obsolete, so it can't be used. That's why we got our Wine without going to a bootlegger will be shown tomorrow. Was your solution to the last construction anything like this? 1. Tower; 2. Bower; 3. Rorer; 4. Borer; 5. Bares; 6. Babes; 7. Babel.

BRUNSWICK LISTS FAMOUS ARTISTS IN NEW RELEASES

BY WILL SMITH.

Al Johnson, the Regent Club orchestra, Ben Bernie and his Roosevelt orchestra, Freddie Rose and that inimitable Blackstone Trio, famous radio and concert personalities, are listed in this week's Brunswick record releases in selections that already have made their way into the musical affections of the masses generally.

"Al Johnson," "the world's greatest entertainer," is back again and to use his own words, "You ain't heard nothing" until you hear his conception of "Mother of Mine, I Still Have You" and "Blue River." Johnson is always interesting, and can make a good record of an ordinary tune, but in these he is absolutely superb. He is the recognized leader of all singers of "mammy" songs and for the expression and feeling he uses in singing, and this "mammy" tune is just made for him.

The return of Al Johnson will be great news to record buyers. The first is the theme song of "The Jazz Singer"—the epochal movie with Vitaphone accompaniment in which Johnson is featured—As the movie will be routed throughout the country it will serve as a terrific plug for the record for many months.

Ben Bernie, "the youthful maestro," leads his talented band through some really wonderful instrumental work in this new record of "There Must Be Somebody Else" and "Carefree," both of which adapt themselves very nicely to the style of play that is so distinctively Bernie. This record also is a sentimental ballad of equal appeal. Both are played in perfect waltz tempo by the talented Regent Club orchestra, with appropriate vocal choruses.

The Blackstone Trio has displayed in its previous records in the catalog a remarkable ability to lend new and interesting color to melodies that have been before the public for some time. This time they have a record of the enormous hits of a few years ago, "Indian Love Call" from "Rose Marie," and "I'll See You in My Dreams." These two beautiful melodies take on new life, new tone, new color in the hands of these remarkable musicians.

This is another record that will live long and continue to sell for months and months. The Carter orchestra, an organization of talented musicians who make the extremely popular records a short time ago, are back again with their clever interpretations of "Till We Meet Again" and "I'll See You in My Dreams." The record has no frills, it features the simple melody throughout, and consequently it will have an enormous appeal in every section of the country.

Rose is one of the few recording artists who accompanies himself on the piano, and that fact gives the dealer an excellent talking point, for in addition to his excellent voice he is really a remarkable pianist.

Possibly two of the most beautiful melodies coming out of the season's collections of new tunes are "The Song Is Ended (But the Melody Lingers On)" and "Among My Souvenirs." The first is the new Irving Berlin tune and is a sure fire hit; the second is a sentimental ballad of equal appeal. Both are played in perfect waltz tempo by the talented Regent Club orchestra, with appropriate vocal choruses.

Both are played in perfect waltz tempo by the talented Regent Club orchestra, with appropriate vocal choruses.

The Blackstone Trio has displayed in its previous records in the catalog a remarkable ability to lend new and interesting color to melodies that have been before the public for some time. This time they have a record of the enormous hits of a few years ago, "Indian Love Call" from "Rose Marie," and "I'll See You in My Dreams." These two beautiful melodies take on new life, new tone, new color in the hands of these remarkable musicians.

This is another record that will live long and continue to sell for months and months. The Carter orchestra, an organization of talented musicians who make the extremely popular records a short time ago, are back again with their clever interpretations of "Till We Meet Again" and "I'll See You in My Dreams." The record has no frills, it features the simple melody throughout, and consequently it will have an enormous appeal in every section of the country.

Tired" was made to order for Rose. It is ideal for his voice and he makes the most of his opportunities. Rose is one of the few recording artists who accompanies himself on the piano, and that fact gives the dealer an excellent talking point, for in addition to his excellent voice he is really a remarkable pianist.

Possibly two of the most beautiful melodies coming out of the season's collections of new tunes are "The Song Is Ended (But the Melody Lingers On)" and "Among My Souvenirs." The first is the new Irving Berlin tune and is a sure fire hit; the second is a sentimental ballad of equal appeal. Both are played in perfect waltz tempo by the talented Regent Club orchestra, with appropriate vocal choruses.

Teams Stage Fast Battle On Club Court

Stephens and Bell Again Lead A. A. C. to Victory.

BY WHITNER CARY.

In a game marked by exceedingly fast play on both sides and which at times got rough enough to satisfy the most case-hardened basketball fan, the strong five of the Atlanta Athletic club defeated the Jewish Progressive club quint Wednesday night on the latter's court by the score of 36 to 21.

Those fans who had looked for a walk-away by the Beas boys received a big jolt in the opening half when, for a time, it looked very much as if the decision might be very close. In fact so close was the splendid guarding of the Progressive club during the first half that the A. A. C. five had very few opportunities for clean throws. Both sides attempted during this half to work the ball well down before taking a shot.

The pace was very fast during this opening stanza and the guarding of both teams very good. At the rest period the Beas crew led by the slim margin of 13 to 11.

The play became much rougher in the second half. For a few minutes the J. P. C. team kept within striking distance but as the half wore on the Beas crew seemed to improve. Guard as close as they might, the Progressive boys could not halt the attack of the Athletic club. Led by Bell and Stephens the Beas team began to find the hoop with ever-increasing regularity. After five minutes of the second half the result was never in doubt. Although fighting gamely to the final whistle and although still exhibiting a splendid brand of guarding, the Progressive club could not keep up the fast scoring pace set by its opponents.

As mentioned before Bell and Stephens were the outstanding stars for the A. A. C. Stephens led the pack in scoring, finding the hoop for 14 points. Beside contributing 10 points to his side, Bell played a great game in all departments. Hillman, Finkelshtein and Hirsch led the attack for the Progressive club, while the defensive play of Friedland and Rosenberg was of a very high order.

Giant Management Feels "It Has Acted for the Best"

George Von Elm Says He Will Not Turn Pro

Amateur Champion Denies That He Has Signed Contract With Kearns for Professional Tour.

Los Angeles, January 11.—(AP)—George Von Elm, former national amateur golf champion tonight denied reports that he would sign under the management of Jack Kearns, fight promoter, as a professional for a golf tour. Von Elm insisted he would never consider abandoning the amateur ranks for the professional.

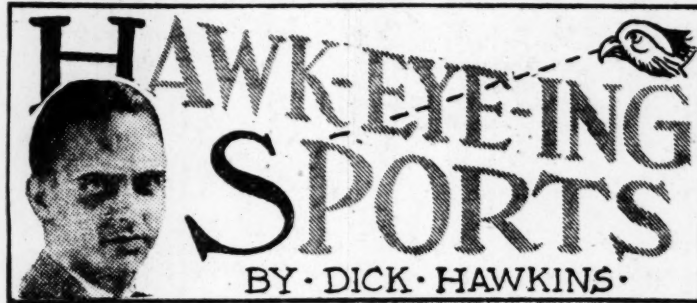

While Kearns insisted the star linksmen was considering seriously his offer, Von Elm declared the suggestion had been made only in a "kidding way" and that he would not for a minute think of making such a change.

Could Make Plenty Money.
Kearns had declared previously that plenty of money could be made out of professional golf if it were given "the proper ballpoo" and intimated that Von Elm would be under his management after finishing the Long Beach open tournament, which starts Friday.

Kearns brought the name of Al Watrous, Grand Rapids, professional, into the proposition as a possible team-mate for Von Elm.
From Kearns' camp also came information that El Paso, Texas, would be the scene of Von Elm's first golf appearance after winding up his amateur career in the Long Beach tourney. It was declared arrangements for the El Paso opening of the professional tour already had been started.
Earlier in the afternoon Von Elm had been reported as confirming his acceptance of Kearns' proposition, and tonight a close business associate of Kearns insisted the agreement had been entered into. In the face of the golfer's denials it was declared Von Elm desired to withhold any announcement temporarily, but he also denied that such an allegation was true.
Von Elm insisted golf was but an honored pastime with him and that, united with his private business, would prevent him in spite of any "million dollar" offer from going into professional golf.

McNamara Leads 6-Day Bike Race

Chicago, January 11.—(AP)—Reggie McNamara, of Newark, and Charley Winter, New York, were holding first place by two laps in Chicago's 19th international six-day bicycle race at the end of the 66th hour.

A Wise Move.

Mayor Ragsdale has reappointed the three members of the Atlanta boxing commission and in so doing he has made a wise move. Claude Buchanan, Al Martin and Bob Parker have done well in the job and plan to do even better in the future if their new year's resolutions count for anything.

The commission in 1927 has had but one weakness and that has been improving steadily. At times it failed to check carefully on the records of fighters appearing here. Advance publicity sent out by fight managers usually holds just about as much truth as the prospectus of a fly-by-night oil syndicate and many times it is hard to make the manager boys be good, but the commission is in office for that purpose.

In talking with Al Martin the other day he told us, "It is mighty hard to check on the hams but we are doing all we can now to make them tell the truth. We are in a hard fix at times because we are servants of the public and if we call off a match after finding that one of the principals is not what he is represented to be it may mean the loss of a show for the customers. But we WILL call off any fights in the future that are not just what the publicity says they are."

At any rate the commission as now composed has done much good work and the members are learning all the time. Their reappointment should help the game in Atlanta.

Tough for Commission.

The old commission, newly reappointed, faces a tough job as its first of the new regime. Next week at the auditorium Rough Dickie Daviscount and his amiable friend, Mr. Scotty McDougal, will meet in mortal (not moral) combat on the mat.

Mr. Daviscount first told Matchmaker Contos that he would come for the match if Matchmaker Contos would guarantee him one large grand for his part of the receipts. Not having any assurance that there would be a grand for anybody's part of the receipts, Mr. Contos refused and went to bargaining. Naturally Mr. Daviscount consented, just as he had intended to do in the first instance.

But that is not all the story. Mr. Daviscount now says in effect, "You can have your pound of flesh but I wanna weigh it on my scales. I want my own referee or I won't play. That for you."

Now any match between Scott McDougal and the Pacific coast bruiser is quite likely to develop into a job for the commission and that same match with a referee appointed by Mr. Daviscount is likely to make it a good job.

Our idea of the correct course is to haul a couple of ambulances up to the doors, have a good physician as second to the referee, make plenty of space around the ring so no innocent bystanders will get hurt and then "turn 'em loose!"

New Statement Says Strength Is Given Club

Hornsby, in St. Louis, at Loss to Know Why He Was Traded to Braves.

BY FRANK GETTY.

United News Sports Editor.
New York, January 11.—The baseball world remains incredulous, where the trade of Rogers Hornsby to the Boston Braves is concerned.
A nation of fans who accepted with undue concern the whitewashing of those accused in last winter's scandal simply will not believe that the star second baseman, the most valuable player on the New York Giants, was sent to a lowly second-division club just to prevent him from attempting unduly to take over the management of the team now led by John J. McGraw.

To Avoid Trouble.
Speaking for the Giants, President Charles A. Stoneham today said that Hornsby was sent to the Braves in exchange for Francis X. Hogan and Jimmy Welsh "in order to avoid any future conflicts in the management of the club and for no other reason."

Supplementing that statement, Secretary James Tierney asserted that no trouble between McGraw and Hornsby over the management of the Giants had as yet arisen.
"We just wanted to insure ourselves against trouble in the future," Tierney told the United News.

If the Giants really felt that Hornsby was just wanted to insure themselves against trouble in the future, why, ask the fans, did they need to rush so hastily into what obviously was a one-sided deal?
Hogan is declared by McGraw to be the most promising young backstop since Roger Bresnahan was developed from an outfielder to a catcher. Welsh is no great shakes as an outfielder.

Strengthens Giants.
"The club believes that in this deal it has been strengthened behind the bat and in the outfield," says Charley Stoneham, naively.

Nons will dispute his statement. But what about the gaping hole at second base, ask the fans? What about the loss of Hornsby's batting ability? The offensive power of the New York club, statistics for 1927 show, depended greatly upon "The Rajah." Whatever his ambitions, he certainly could hit, both in a pinch and throughout the season. His batting average was better than that of either of the Boston players by nearly 100 points.

No, the fans refuse to believe that there is not a nigger in the woodpile. They decline to believe that McGraw is not quite capable of taking care of himself when it comes to running the Giants.

They are wondering whether Hornsby's recent difficulties with a bookmaker in which, while successful legally, Rogers was branded as a "Welsher," may have influenced the decision of the New York club. Baseball magnates are business men, and are not so easily swayed by personal prejudices where their pocketbooks are concerned.
One must look farther than that for the answer to the Hornsby puzzle.

RAJAH SAYS HE NEVER TRIED TO GET JOB.

St. Louis, Mo., January 11.—(AP)—(United News.)—The once eminent Rogers Hornsby plans to earn his $40,000 salary in 1928 by a lot of hard work around second base and he isn't going to quibble about his employer principally because he doesn't think it would do any good. "I have a one-year contract that is good," Hornsby said, "and I fully expect to live up to it. I'll just report to the Braves in the spring and make the best of it." Hornsby admitted, however, that the trade wasn't to his liking, particularly because of the reason given for sending him to the second division club after his success as a player and leader with pennant-winning and pennant-contending clubs.

"It's a Lie," Says Hornsby.
The statement that Hornsby was traded "to avoid further conflict in management of the New York club" was made by President Charles A. Stoneham, of the Giants.

"It's an absolute lie," Hornsby said. "I never wanted to be manager of the Giants or double-cross Johnny McGraw."

"I'm not that kind of a fellow and I'll tell Stoneham so to his face. I don't know anything about a conflict and I can't understand it. McGraw said once that he wanted me to succeed him as manager of the Giants, but that was his idea."

The Decatur biggers added a double victory to their list Wednesday when both the girls' and boys' teams defeated the Grayson fives on the local court. ## Five-Man Fight Board Is Sought for Atlanta

New Plan Would Put Sports Writer on Commission—Mayor Sanctions Movement.

On the heels of reappointment Wednesday of all members of the Atlanta boxing commission to succeed themselves, Mayor I. N. Ragsdale gave his sanction to a movement to enlarge the membership of the commission from three to five members and place a representative of the sporting department of Atlanta dailies on the committee.

Under the present plan, a member of the sporting staff of one of the papers would hold the position a year, it then would fall to another staff and thus rotating.
The paper will be offered to city council at its meeting Monday, the mayor retaining the appointive power as at present.

Claude E. Buchanan was named chairman of the 1928 commission, and Al H. Martin and Bob Parker were the other members named.

The boxing commission has turned in to the city's coffers a total of $2,438, representing 5 per cent of the gross receipts of boxing and wrestling matches held in this city during 1927. While 1927 was not the most successful year in the history of boxing and wrestling since the city took over supervision of these two sports, it fell only $400 short of the 1926 total.

Considering the fact that Young Strickling and the late Tiger Flowers were at their height in 1926 the showing made for the past year is considered very good.

While Mr. Buchanan was very much pleased with the 1927 showing, he is more enthusiastic over prospects for the coming year.

SYNOPSIS.

John Arden, handsome young Londoner, meets through an accident lovely Esmée Bernmore, to whom he is able to render a slight but efficacious service. He learns that the girl and her companion, Mrs. Sinclair, have been in London from the Argentine. The last two persons to see Lord Farndale alive. The old earl's sudden and mysterious death is the subject of the morning papers and Arden grows suspicious of Mrs. Sinclair when he learns that she is trying to keep their visit to the old earl secret and is covering Esmée into secrecy against her will. The police, however, learn the identity of the two women who visited Lord Farndale just before his death. Mrs. Sinclair, fearing arrest or detection as a material witness, persuades Esmée to accompany her to Paris. John Arden, whose interest in Esmée has been aroused because he fears that she is under the influence of an unscrupulous creature, saves her from arrest by kidnapping her at the railroad station behind Mrs. Sinclair's back. He takes her to the apartment of Andy Burke, one of his best friends, and Burke turns over his room and his housekeeper to her.

The friends put their heads together in Esmée's behalf, but in the midst of their plotting Furze, of Scotland Yard, joins them. Esmée tells her story to the men, and at the completion the detective agrees to help her.

Esmée, who has been the landlady of Lord Farndale, had never seen the old man until just before his death. Her father, only child of the earl, had quarreled with him in his youth, had gone out to the Argentine, married, lived, and died there. Her mother had died when she was very young. Mrs. Sinclair, a friend of the family, had been very kind to her after her father's death and had invited the lonely young girl to live with her. There Esmée met Juan de Braganza, a young Argentine, who asked her to live with him. She refused him. Juan invited Esmée for a ride one day, and he took her out into the country and they stopped at an inn for coffee. Esmée grew ill after drinking it, but maintained she never lost consciousness. She was asked to sign the inn register, but she refused and demanded to be taken back to town.

Furze tells her that Juan de Braganza claims that she is his wife.

Esmée decides to go back to Mrs. Sinclair and Furze agrees to let her go. Mrs. Sinclair and Braganza, who has arrived in London, are placed under surveillance and complete protection is given to Esmée by the police.

John Arden follows Braganza to Paris at Furze's suggestion, and there the trail leads him to Lady Doone, Esmée's great-aunt and sister of Lord Farndale, who has lived abroad for fifteen years. Braganza tries to elicit her aid in having Esmée acknowledge him as her husband, but, disliking his appearance, she gives him very little encouragement. Arden was the old lord's complete opposite when he tells her that he intends to run the Braganza's false claim and to marry Esmée himself. He induces Lady Doone to come with him to England and place Esmée under her care. Aunt and niece are attracted to each other at sight.

INSTALLMENT XLVI.

SHELDON FISHES FOR FACTS.

The fisherman and the landlady of the inn were exchanging an occasional remark, mostly as to the identity of such local celebrities as happened to be present, when the latter said suddenly:

"By gum! There's owd Tommy Trenholme! I haven't seen him for twenty year an' more. Now he's your man if you want information about the Bernmores. He must ha' know his lordship's father quite well."

"Information!" repeated the fisherman with a smile. "Hardly that, but I certainly am interested in the story I read in the newspapers. You see, I happen to live not far from the Farndale house in London. Can you get hold of this Mr. Trenholme?"

"Unless he has changed a lot, any one can get hold of him by standing a pint. Here 'Jack'—this is a small boy who knew where every trout lurked for miles around—'run an' tell that owd chap oower yonder I'd like to hev' a wot w' him."

Trenholme came at once.

"This is Mr. Sheldon, a gentleman from London," said the landlady. "He's here for 'fishin' an' I've just told him there's nobody in Higher Yatton these days as can hark back to owd times like you."

"Ay, mebbe," came the grudging admission, "but if I'd thought there'd be such a gang o' gapers here today I'd never ha' come near the inn, iv a bus. I can't see a thing for folks."

"It's a dull job watching funerals," said Sheldon. "Let us get in out of the glare. Your 'bus won't be going back at once, Mr. Trenholme?"

"Nay, there's nowt i' that. It runs jivery hour, and happen 'next twit' he'll be full o' 'em. Anyhow, I'm hev'ing tea w' my married dower i' t' village."

Trenholme provided against his daughter's tea doing him any harm by swallowing not one but several pints of beer. He was tedious and discursive and covered much ground already traversed by Sheldon's inquiries, but when he came to the quarrel between Lord Farndale and his heir he opened up a new and rich vein. Divested of the Yorkshire dialect and a good deal of prolixity, his story ran that both father and son had married beneath them.

Lady Bernmore—she died before the divorce came—left her husband early in their wedded life and went to live in Paris. There was no open scandal, but a vital disagreement. The son, as he grew up, took his mother's part. While in Oxford he figured as a radical, whereas the older man was a high Tory. To make matters worse, during one of his rare visits to the hall he flirted somewhat openly with a very pretty girl living in a near-by village. The incident led to a definite rupture in the Bernmore family. The heir joined his mother in Paris, and after her death had gone to foreign parts. At an early date, he was never again seen in Higher Yatton or heard of even in London.

"Did he marry the girl?" purred Sheldon, refilling his pipe.

"Nay, nay, I ken nowt about that," said Trenholme.

"Well, if she left the village, and disappeared also, one might guess a bit," said Sheldon. "Is her father living?"

"Ay, owd Buchanan! Mebbe he'll tell you, an' mebbe nut."

"Buchanan! Do you mean the butler who gave evidence at the inquest the other day?"

"Ay, Bud, look you here, young man! I don't know what sort o' fish you want to catch i' these parts, but you'll foul-hook a vicious owd pike if you tackle him about his dower. I did rance, years ago, an' he nearly snapped me nose off."

"Fish!" laughed Sheldon. "There's nothing here bigger than a six-ounce trout. If there any better sport down your way? I have been thinking so."

iously of going home tomorrow. . . . By the way, you'll surely take one more?"

"Well, nobless yan. Me dower went to bed when I rowl in full o' beer."

At that moment a telegram was handed to Sheldon. It read: "Telephone Embankment at five."

"There we go!" he sighed. "My marching orders—back to home and work. Goodbye, friend! May you live to empty many barrels! I think I must learn to drink beer. It seems to have agreed wonderfully with you."

The nearest postoffice telephone was in a neighboring village. Sheldon walked there and put in a call for "TWO O' VICTORIA" a few minutes before five.

"I am sorry if I am too early," said Sheldon, when he heard the chief's voice at the other end. "I could not be quite sure you had arranged matters."

"That's all right," said Winter. "The dead man's sister, Lady Doone, and the young lady in whom Arden is interested, reach the Hall about six. I think you had better make yourself known to both."

"I am afraid that will be a mistake, sir. You've had my letter?"

"Well, I think—of course, I cannot be sure—that the young lady's father married the daughter of the silver-haired old chap who gave evidence the other day. He saw me when he will recognize me now. I suggest that I ought to leave for town early tomorrow. The girl, I imagine, was born in the very place I am speaking from."

"When did you get on the track?"

"About an hour ago."

"There will be no holding the Frog after this. He guessed it, or something like it, yesterday. Well, well! Come back, of course."

The letter which Sheldon posted the previous day showed that he had not wasted his time.

"I had made friends with the head gardener at the Hall, as Lord Farndale's place is called, so when everything was at stake and seems over the funeral and it was known that the body had left London I got him to take me into the rooms which the footman described as the 'museum.' The collection of geological formations and minerals is quite famous throughout Yorkshire, so there is a separate entrance for visitors."

"After a brief search I came on a case labeled 'antimony.' Owing to Sir Archibald's system of display, such a metal was wonderfully easy to understand, even by a layman. He began by giving its history on a plainly written card. It seems it was known to the Arabs and Greeks, and is even mentioned in the Old Testament. (I don't know where, neither does the parson here, nor his curate.) Then he showed specimens of it in other metallic sulphides. He went on to samples of tin and brass alloyed with antimony, and ultimately to powders and liquids (all highly technical chemical compounds) used as medicinal poisons. His action he briefly described as 'akin to that of arsenic.'"

"It was easy to see that both powders and liquids were diminished in volume. Certain dust marks proved that the case had been opened recently. Of course, I could have picked the lock—but to what purpose? I consider that, not without our help, a Home Office toxicologist should be the first to make a thorough examination."

If Alertox Fails In Constipation Call A Doctor

This unique preparation acts in from 60 to 90 minutes; gives one thorough elimination and no more; does not interfere with duties, habits or diet, perfectly harmless, and guaranteed to remove, in one action, more poison bile from the system than any other known formula, leaving you buoyant, vivacious and alert.

These are but a few of the distinct advantages of Alertox, which flushes the alimentary tract, reestablishes a natural, healthy liver and bowel action and is much quicker and far more effective than calomel, oils and nauseating cathartics that merely good the liver and work you to death.

Alertox also alkalizes the system and thoroughly cleanses it of the poisons that cause auto-intoxication. Ask any one who has tried it. Your druggist has Alertox; if not, send direct upon receipt of price, 60c and $1.00. Crystal Carbonic Laboratory, Dept. 30, Atlanta, Ga.—(adv.)

Miss Phillips Gives Vital Points To Georgia Women

Miss Lena Madison Phillips, of New York, national president of the Business and Professional Women's clubs, was principal speaker at a call meeting of clubs of the Georgia Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs held in Macon last Saturday. Her primary purpose in the south was to confer with the New Orleans club relative to the national convention which will be held there in July. She visited several southern states and urged the importance of a large southern delegation at the convention in order that the other clubs might experience real southern hospitality. She assured the assembly that the "President Special" would stop in Atlanta en route to New Orleans.

As one of the organizers of the present national federation, Miss Phillips traced its growth from some few hundred members to the present number, 50,000, made up of over 800 clubs or one in nearly every large city in the United States. Every club has a peculiar situation," Miss Phillips explained, "which they give as the reason why they have not accomplished more. The real reason lies in themselves.

Women are comparatively new in the business world and they are not yet sure of themselves and courage enough to demand that which they want and merit," she said. "Women have been taught incapable of thinking. They were supposed to feel."

Miss Phillips, a former music teacher in a Kentucky town, now a prominent business woman in New York, knows whereof she speaks, as she has covered the road leading from seclusion, sheltered by southern traditions, to an eminence attained by force.

Three most important factors in women's success are: First, vision, vision to see, to plan, to strive toward something definite; Second, faith, faith in themselves and in each other; Third, courage, courage to persevere, to fight, confidence in their selves.

In conclusion Miss Phillips paid tribute to the preceding generation of women who are the real pioneers in the business world, and asked that this generation of business and professional women contribute as much toward the progress and help of the young girls as this present generation was being helped by their predecessors.

Those attending the meeting from Atlanta were: Miss Ada Booth, president of State Federation Business and Professional Women's Clubs; Miss Rebecca Shuman, president of the Atlanta club; Misses Elizabeth Eager, Jennie Williams, Virginia Goodman, Isabel Sparr, Pauline Steinhauser and Leita Thompson, Mesdames F. C. Kinney, Mott Russell, Annie Richards.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and it heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, hemorrhoids and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

How an Expectant Mother Prepared for Baby's Coming

IT has been proven conclusively that much of the suffering experienced during expectancy, as well as at childbirth, is entirely unnecessary.

Tight tissues, binding muscles, sensitive nerves—all tend to set up an aggravated condition—sapping strength and leaving the expectant mother unprepared to meet the crisis.

Mother's Friend is a comfort to expectant mothers. Externally applied, it relieves pre-natal distress by relaxing tight tissues and muscles. And it is so soothing. Its daily use makes the skin soft and pliable.

Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., writes: "With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used Mother's Friend and had only a nurse, we had no time to get a doctor

MADDOX ISSUES FINAL STATEMENT

James W. Maddox, one of the candidates in the three-cornered race for Fulton county commissioner to succeed the late Charles G. Turner, which will be decided at the polls today, issued the following statement Wednesday night:

"The campaign is over and only the votes are to be cast and counted. 'From the expressions I have heard in my canvass, I am absolutely confident of my election in tomorrow's contest. The only danger being the over-confidence of my friends—and the voters believing as I do.

"I wish to thank the people generally who have so generously promised me support and to pledge them again my earnest efforts for progress and economy.

"By progress I mean that a liberal support should be given to education and recreation, county aid should be extended to health and sanitation—sewers and fire protection should be provided for thickly populated communities. The police and public works men should be accorded fair treatment.

"Roads should be built and kept in repair—serving the greatest number. 'These are the things I believe in and for these things I stand and shall fight.

"County business should be transacted in a business-like manner. A budget should be prepared and the present debt paid and taxes lowered. All officials should be paid fairly, and liberally for their service, but the annual fixing along political lines should be eliminated.

"I ask you to come out and vote for me and insure these progressive measures."

Doomed To Die, R. H. Sheppard Gets New Trial

The supreme court Wednesday granted a new trial to R. H. Sheppard, under death sentence for killing Homer Fowler in February, 1927. The decision of the Fulton superior court was reversed and the case remanded. The higher court held that the lower court erred in declining to grant a postponement in the case sought by attorneys for Sheppard.

When Sheppard was arraigned for trial last March he had no attorneys and Judge John D. Humphries appointed C. J. Graham and W. B. Knight, to defend him. The attorneys asked for a postponement until they could study the case, but the trial judge declined to postpone the case. The jury was empaneled and the attorneys given one hour to prepare their case.

In its decision the supreme court held that a person on trial for capital offense was entitled to have attorneys sufficiently informed as to his case to make a proper defense. The court held that the attorneys should be granted at least one full day in which to complete their defense.

All the members of the court concurred in the decision except Judges Beck and Gilbert. They held that the defendant had ample time between February 22, when he was indicted, and March 9, the date of the trial, which to employ defending attorneys and to prepare his case.

M. J. Kennedy, manager of the Eagles club, at 34 1-2 Peachtree street, entered a plea of guilty Wednesday in federal court to charges of violating the prohibition law, while the case against George Green, negro porter in the club, was dismissed on Kennedy's statement that the negro did not know that there was any whisky in the place and had nothing to do with it. Kennedy was fined $15 by Judge Samuel H. Sibley, the case having already passed through the state courts.

Kennedy was charged by the raiding squad with possessing a gallon and six pints of whisky, in addition to a quart and a milk bottle full of whisky in the ice box. The officers alleged that they found drinking glasses with the liquor.

Walter Braswell, who pleaded guilty on October 31 to violation of the narcotic act, Wednesday was sentenced to serve a year and a day in the federal prison.

Divisional sales managers in attendance were W. P. Mullon, Birmingham; R. J. Hudson, Montgomery; W. C. Wingard, Augusta; R. O. Ferrell, Albany, and T. C. Simmons, Atlanta. ## SCHOOL TAX ELECTIONS WINS APPEAL IN COURT

The state supreme court Wednesday held constitutional the act of 1927 authorizing counties to hold elections on proposed school taxes additional to the maximum levy of five mills allowed by the state constitution. The decision came in a case appealed from Chatham county superior court, and affirmed that court's decision in issuing a mandamus which required the county commissioners to levy for the year 1927 a public school tax of five mills on all property in the county, additional to the tax already allowed. The case against the commissioners was brought by the board of public education for Savannah and Chatham county, following a county election in June, 1928, when the levy proposal passed by more than the required two-thirds vote, court records showed.

J.," the famous fashion authority, as style consultant for the Atlanta firm.

Lose Fat in an easier way

Don't over-exercise—correct the cause

Some can reduce by starvation or abnormal exercise, but the way is long and hard. Not one in ten of the over-fat has the patience to continue. And even then the best efforts may fail unless the inner cause is corrected.

Over twenty years ago scientific men discovered a great cause of excess fat. They found a substance which Nature employs to turn food into fuel and energy rather than into fat. They proved that an extra supply of this substance could check fat formation.

That substance was embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for two decades—millions of boxes of them. Now you can see in almost every circle how much they have done for beauty, health, and vitality. Doubtless some of your friends can tell you. Slenderness prevails today, fat is the exception.

The use of Marmola requires no abnormal exercise or diet, though moderate helps. Users simply take four tablets daily until the weight comes down to normal. They combat the cause.

Try the help which has done so much for so many. You owe that to yourself. You cannot afford to stay over-fat when reduction is so easy and so pleasant. Watch the results, then tell your friends, as people have for 20 years been doing. All your life you will be glad that you know Marmola. Go order now.

Marmola, prescription tablets are available at all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

A worthwhile book for that $3.00 you save

A great dentifrice that cleans with amazing speed

There are many excellent dentifrices on the market selling at a trifle above or below 50c—but is it necessary to pay that much? Why not a first-class dentifrice at 25c—scientifically correct for all types of teeth?

Believing this to be a sound price, we created Listerine Tooth Paste at 25c for a large tube. It is the result of more than fifty years' study of tooth and mouth troubles. Now it is sweeping the country. Everywhere it is supplanting older and costlier dentifrices that accomplish no more.

Due to the presence of an amazing new and gentle polishing agent, it keeps teeth gleaming white with almost no brushing. Included also are certain ingredients we have found most ideal in keeping the mouth and gums fresh and healthy.

We ask you to try this paste for its delightful and speedy cleansing, and for its marked saving (quite substantial in a large family). Get a tube at your druggist's today. Try it for a month. See how it makes teeth gleam. Note how good your mouth feels after using it. Compare it with any paste you have ever used and judge by results alone.
